Pharmacist License, Pharmacy Permit, and CDS License Renewals for 2013 (12-10-416)

The renewal cycle for pharmacist licenses, pharmacy permits, and controlled dangerous substance (CDS) licenses for pharmacies will open on November 1, 2012. Just prior to that date, you should receive a reminder mailer from the Louisiana Board of Pharmacy office; the mailer will remind you of the three options you have to renew your credentials:

1. Visit the Board's Web site at www.pharmacy.la.gov and renew your credential online using a credit card;
2. Visit the same Web site to download and print an application form, then complete and mail to the Board office the application form with the appropriate fee, using a check or money order; or
3. Send a written request to the Board office (mail, fax, or e-mail) with your name, credential number, and mailing address requesting the Board to mail an application form to you.

Any address changes received at the Board's office after October 19, 2012, will not be reflected on your reminder mailer. In the event the postal service fails to deliver your reminder mailer by November 15, 2012, then it becomes your responsibility to obtain an application form or renew your credential online. Credentials renewed online will be mailed within one or two business days; credentials renewed with paper application forms will be mailed within two to four weeks, depending on the volume of paper applications received.

The online renewal module on the Board's Web site is timed to automatically activate on 12:01 AM on November 1, 2012, and to automatically deactivate at midnight on December 31, 2012. While the Board makes every effort to maintain the online convenience during the renewal cycle, the Board's service provider may experience weather-related or other unforeseen technical difficulties from time to time; it has already happened more than once in the few years the Board has been offering the online option. You have 60 days to renew your credential, and it is your choice as to when to complete that duty. In the event you choose to wait until the last day and the Web site is not available, then you will be responsible for the consequences of your failure to renew your credential in a timely manner. The Board does not waive late fees in that situation. Why take a chance? Please do not wait until the last minute of the last day.

Pharmacist License Renewal

- ◆ Current pharmacist licenses expire at midnight on December 31, 2012. There is no grace period, and a pharmacist shall not practice with an expired license.
- ◆ Should you elect to use a paper application form, the Board suggests you submit your completed application form and $100 fee to the Board office no later than December 1, 2012. Please do not forget to sign and date the application form and respond to all questions on the form. If the form is incomplete, or if there is no supporting documentation when required, then the application form will be returned to you as incomplete, resulting in a delay in the renewal of your license.
- ◆ If it is important for you to know when your paper application form is received at the Board office, then the Board suggests you use a mailing service with tracking options, eg, FedEx, UPS, or United States Postal Service (USPS). The Board anticipates the renewal of approximately 10,000 credentials. Due to the volume of mail during the renewal cycle, the Board may not be able to respond in a timely manner to requests for delivery confirmation.
- ◆ The fee for a timely renewal of a pharmacist license is $100. The renewal of an expired license will incur a 50% penalty fee as well as a lapsed license reinstatement fee, resulting in a total charge of $350.

Pharmacy Permit and CDS License Renewal

- ◆ Please remember the pharmacy permit and CDS license are now separate credentials and must be renewed on separate application forms. There is no change in the fee and you may write one check for one or more credentials, but the application forms are separate.

AHRQ Toolset Can Assist Pharmacies Using e-Prescribing

A toolset released by the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ) can assist independent pharmacies with the implementation of e-prescribing and may also provide useful guidance to those pharmacies already using e-prescribing. The toolset for independent pharmacies consists of seven chapters that provide guidance on topics ranging from planning the implementation process and launching the system, to troubleshooting common problems and moving into more advanced pharmacy services, states AHRQ. Flyers for use in communicating the launch to patients, templates for communicating with providers about the launch, tools for assessing pharmacy workflow, and a spreadsheet to determine return-on-investment, among other tools, are also available to pharmacies. The toolset can be downloaded from the AHRQ Web site at http://healthit.ahrq.gov/portal/server.pt/community/health_it_tools_and_resources/919/a_toolset_for_e-prescribing_implementation_in_independent_pharmacies/30595.

FDA Database Provides Information on Pediatric Medications

A Food and Drug Administration (FDA) database provides information on pediatric medications, making it easier for both health care providers and caregivers to locate this information. The Pediatric Labeling Information Database is a one-stop resource, where providers and caregivers can search for information by the product's commercial or chemical name, or by the condition for which it was studied. The database was developed by FDA's Office of Pediatric Therapeutics (OPT), in collaboration with the Center for Drug Evaluation and Research. The OPT also provides a Safety Reporting page with information on products that have been tied to safety problems that specifically relate to children. Additional information and a link to the database is available in the Consumer Updates section of the FDA Web site at www.fda.gov/ForConsumers/ConsumerUpdates/ucm305040.htm.

Inattentional Blindness: What Captures Your Attention?

This column was prepared by the Institute for Safe Medication Practices (ISMP). ISMP is an independent nonprofit agency that analyzes medication errors, near misses, and potentially hazardous conditions as reported by pharmacists and other practitioners. ISMP then makes appropriate contacts with companies and regulators, gathers expert opinion about prevention measures, and publishes its recommendations. To read about the risk reduction strategies that you can put into practice today, subscribe to ISMP Medication Safety Alert!® Community/Ambulatory Care Edition by visiting www.ismp.org. ISMP is a federally certified patient safety organization, providing legal protection and confidentiality for submitted patient safety data and error reports. ISMP is also an FDA MedWatch partner. A pharmacist enters a prescription for methotrexate daily into the pharmacy computer. A dose warning appears on the screen. The pharmacist reads the warning, bypasses it, and dispenses the medication as entered. The patient receives an overdose of the medication and dies.

This error, and many more, have happened because the person performing the task fails to see what should have been plainly visible, and later, they cannot explain the lapse.¹ People involved in these errors have been labeled as careless and negligent. But these types of accidents are common – even with intelligent, vigilant, and attentive people. The cause is usually rooted in inattentional blindness.¹

Accidents happen when attention mistakenly filters away important information and the brain fills in the gaps with what is aptly referred to as a “grand illusion.”² Thus, in the example above, the brain of the pharmacist filtered out important information on the computer screen, and filled in the gaps with erroneous information that led him to believe he had read the warning appropriately.

Inattentional blindness is more likely to occur if part of your attention is diverted to secondary tasks, like answering the phone while entering prescriptions into the computer, or even thinking about your dinner plans while transcribing an order.

Low workload causes boredom and reduces the mental attention given to tasks, as does carrying out highly practiced tasks, such as counting out medication. We spend a large majority of our waking life functioning with the equivalent of an automatic pilot, with occasional conscious checks to ensure tasks are being carried out properly. This makes us particularly prone to inattentional blindness.

Our past experiences also teach us what is relevant. Errors occur when new or unusual circumstances happen in highly familiar situations. The pharmacist who did not notice important information on a computer warning had rarely encountered a clinically significant computer alert. The pharmacist had subconsciously learned that there was nothing important to see when reading alerts. Nothing had ever happened, so attention was automatically filtered away from the details to conserve mental processing.

Conspicuity is the degree to which an object or piece of information “jumps out” and captures your attention. The best way to achieve this effect is through use of contrast, color, or shape to call attention to differences in packaging or text.

It is difficult to reduce the risk of inattentional blindness, as it is an involuntary and unnoticed consequence of our adaptive ability to defend against information overload. Error-reduction strategies such as education, training, and rules are of little value. Instead, efforts should center on increasing conspicuity of critical information, and decreasing diversions of attention and secondary tasks when carrying out complex tasks.

Know Your Dose Game Teaches Safe Acetaminophen Use

As part of the Know Your Dose campaign, the Acetaminophen Awareness Coalition has developed an interactive educational game to teach safe use of acetaminophen. The game not only answers some of the most common questions surrounding the safe use of acetaminophen, it gives an engaging face to the issue. The game, available on the Compliance News to a particular state or jurisdiction should not be assumed as representing the law of such state or jurisdiction.)

Know Your Dose Web site at www.knowyourdose.org/game, invites consumers to follow three characters through a typical day of aches and pains while helping the characters learn how to take medicine that contains acetaminophen safely.

Contraception Products Sold Online With No Prescription Required, Endangering Public Health

Health care providers should help to educate patients about the risks of prescription contraceptive products marketed online as “no prescription” and “over-the-counter” products, pharmaceutical security researchers conclude. A study by these researchers found that Google searches returned results for prescription contraceptive products such as injections, oral contraceptives, and patches, as well as intrauterine devices (IUDs). All of these products were marketed as available without a prescription and researchers found that sellers provided links to YouTube videos with IUD instructions. The researchers also found that these products were being promoted on social media channels, including Facebook, Twitter, SlideShare, and Flickr. Researchers Bryan A. Liang, MD, JD, PhD, Tim K. Mackey, MAS, and Kimberly M. Lovett, MD, conclude that such online contraceptive sales represent patient safety risks and also suggest that policy makers should “employ legal strategies to address these systemic risks.” The study, “Suspect Online Sellers and Contraceptive Access,” is available in the May 25, 2012 issue of Contraception.

New FDA Drug Info Rounds Training Video

FDA Drug Info Rounds, a series of online training videos, provides important and timely drug information to practicing clinical and community pharmacists so they can help patients make better medication decisions. In the latest Drug Info Rounds video, available at www.fda.gov/Drugs/ResourcesForYou/HealthProfessionals/ucm313768.htm, pharmacists discuss the Accelerated Approval Program and how FDA helps make new, potentially lifesaving drugs available more quickly. Drug Info Rounds is developed with contributions from pharmacists in FDA’s Center for Drug Evaluation and Research, Office of Communications, and Division of Drug Information.

FDA Resources Help Raise Awareness About Health Fraud Scams

To help raise consumer awareness about health fraud scams, FDA provides numerous educational resources in the Health Fraud Scams section of its Web site. Educating consumers on how to avoid such scams, FDA videos present information on various types of fraudulent products such as fake diet, sexual enhancement, and body building products. Consumers can also access information about specific products that are the subject of FDA warning letters, recalls, public notifications, and safety alerts. FDA news releases related to health fraud are also accessible through this section of the Web site.

Pharmacist Responsibility (12-10-417)

If you are the pharmacist-in-charge of a pharmacy, it is your responsibility to ensure that all personnel you allow to perform professional functions in your prescription department are properly credentialed with an active and current credential. If you are a staff pharmacist or relief pharmacist, it is your responsibility to ensure that all personnel you allow to assist you in the prescription department are properly credentialed with an active and current credential.

In the event a compliance officer discovers anyone performing professional functions without the necessary credentials, then all pharmacists present, as well as the pharmacist-in-charge, will be identified in the resulting investigative report filed by the compliance officer. Further, in the event of a formal inquiry by the Board, all of those pharmacists so identified will bear the risk of potential disciplinary action for aiding and abetting the unlicensed practice of pharmacy.

State Health Department Requests Pharmacist and Technician Volunteers (12-10-418)

The Center for Community Preparedness in the Louisiana Department of Health and Hospitals Office of Public Health (DHH-OPH) is requesting your help as a volunteer. In the event of a public health emergency that requires mass prophylaxis of citizens in any part of the state, the first persons to receive medical countermeasures will be first responders, which includes (but is not limited to) law enforcement, emergency medical services, firefighters, as well as those who support various sectors of critical infrastructure. The state of Louisiana maintains assets for immediate response activities, which are designated for prophylaxis of first responders. These medical countermeasures may be shipped in bulk containers and will require repackaging into individual antibiotic regimens. The oversight of repackaging activities is the responsibility of the DHH-OPH Pharmacy.

There is a current need to strengthen the existing repackaging response plans and increase the pool of professional volunteers dedicated to ensuring the timely preparation of individual antibiotic regimens for our first responders. It is for this purpose that DHH-OPH is soliciting for pharmacist and technician volunteers. DHH-OPH will assume all responsibility for providing volunteers with the information and training necessary for responding should the need ever arise. In the event you are interested, DHH-OPH requests pharmacists and technicians to enroll in the Louisiana Volunteers in Action Registry. Those professionals willing to support this effort will only be asked to serve within their respective DHH-OPH region should their services ever be required. To affiliate with the registry, interested pharmacists and technicians should visit the registry's Web site at www.lava.dhh.louisiana.gov. When you decide to complete the enrollment process, kindly reserve about 20 minutes and have your professional credentials and driver's license with you. In the event you have questions during the registration process, you may call 225/354-3517.

(Note: this article was written by DHH-OPH personnel; the Board is pleased to collaborate with that agency to distribute the article to all of its licensed pharmacists and certified technicians.)
